Dr Katia Meier

Carcinogenic and endocrine-disrupting chemicals are added to products we use on a daily basis; our water is poisoned with a drug normally only available per prescription; our food supply is contaminated with genetically-altered organisms which have never been tested for safety. Our ability to stay healthy in this toxic world depends largely on how well we are able to lower

Are environmental toxins making you sick?

Serious medical conditions, including cancer, have been linked to environmental toxins.

the environmental burden and how well our bodies are able to detoxify.

Certain nutrient deficiencies can make environmental exposures even more dangerous; for example, iodine deficiency potentiates fluoride and radiation toxicity and therefore may increase the damage caused to thyroid and other tissues.

Given these challenges, our bodies do an amazing job to keep us healthy and well every day, but sometimes, and not surprisingly so, support is necessary.

At Clear Sky Medical, we can help you meet these challenges on every level. From learning how to arm yourself with good nutrition, avoiding toxins to give your body a fighting chance to fend off damage, assessing your body's burden of environmental exposures, to enhancing your body's ability to detoxify, we have educated professional support for you all the way. Last but not least, we are also experts in restoring your thyroid and hormone health for ultimate wellness.
