Hormones may save your life!

Dr Katia Meier

Yes, Hormones may prolong your life and improve your quality of life on the way. Numerous health magazines just recently published that the discontinuance of hormone replacement therapy has possibly contributed to at least 50,000 deaths in women over the past 10 years.

Hormones may save your life in more ways than one. First, of course, they may just save your sanity, but as a nice side effect, they have also been shown to reduce mortality of all causes including heart disease and breast cancer.

If your body stops producing your own hormones, you can replace an identical replica of your body's own hormones and keep your body at youthful hormone level at all times! Those Hormones are called Bio-identical hormones and are available per prescription in all kinds of preparations, compounded as well as generic.

In fact, hormones have been shown in studies to protect against all diseases of aging; this is why Hormones are the cornerstone of anti-aging medicine!

Best results in protection were only achieved when therapy was not delayed and started right when levels declined. Don't wait any longer, and don't miss the perfect protection window by delaying therapy.
